

HISTORY OF
THE FLORIDA RECREATION AND PARK ASSOCIATION

Compiled by:

Basha Schlazer, FRPA Historian, City of Miami
Debbie Weeks, Intern, Florida State University
Cathy Barker, Intern, University of Florida

Updated by:
The FRPA Executive Office

The Florida Association of Recreation Workers was the original name of the Florida Recreation Association. Although many records were lost, information available shows 1942 as the first year of a state convention, which was held in Orlando, with Nash Higgins as President.

The first Superintendent of Recreation in Orlando, Mr. Thomas W. Lantz (1924-29), stated that in 1924-29 there was no state organization and recreation work was truly in its pioneer state.

Nathan L. Mallison adds facts regarding a gathering held in Jacksonville at the George Washington Hotel in the fall of 1926. Roy Smith Wallace of the NRA was guest speaker. Attendance was approximately fifty people. Mr. J.B. Williams was Florida's District Representative of the NRA. William J. Sanford, Jr., Director of Recreation for the City of Jacksonville, was the host. Entertainment was a motor trip to Pablo Beach.

Marion Wood Huey adds, "among members of the original organization were: J.B. Lemon, Superintendent of Miami Beach; Clarence Varner, who would become Recreation Director of Orlando; and P.V. Gahan, St. Petersburg Director of Recreation. Mr. Gahan was from the Philadelphia area, where he worked with Mrs. Edna Bracher, wife of Howard Bracher, the founder of the NRA. Mr. Gahan was very active in our early organization.

Pioneers in Florida recreation placed a great deal of emphasis on camping, dramatics, and individual group activities. Cooperation of recreation departments with schools, churches, and civic groups in special events and activities have developed into our total playground programs and outdoor water sports. The total playground program includes athletics, arts and crafts, and special events.

Solving the problems of finance, balanced programs, administration of one-person departments, improved personnel, facility development, membership, better public relations, establishing a State Recreation Director of the Florida Development Commission, and many other phases of recreation has been accomplished through the organized efforts of the Florida Recreation Association. It can be seen that our organization has achieved its goal and has continued to work and build better recreation for all ages, giving them a chance to express themselves physically, as well as spiritually and mentally. In this fast moving industrial and scientific age, some of our important projects have been:

- establishment of a Director of Recreation in the Florida Development Commission,
- job and salary classification on a state level,
- setting up five state districts to function at district levels and yet work together as one state organization. In 1974-75 forming seven districts; in 1975-76 forming eight districts.
- improving standards in sports,
- improving relations with allied organizations,
- recreation major established at Florida State in 1951, and at the University of Miami in 1955,
- printed Florida Recreation News
- In 1972, changed our name to the Florida Recreation and Park Association,
- establishing FRPA Certification Exam in 1961 for the voluntary registration of Recreation and Park personnel in the State of Florida in order to establish standards for professional leadership in the field of recreation and parks to identify leaders engaged in the field and to certify that those persons who fulfill the prescribed standards are professionally qualified by training and experience to conduct and administer recreation and parks programs, areas, and facilities,
- growth of the organization to approximately 1,200 members throughout the state. These accomplishments must in part be credited to the pioneer leaders of our Association.
- employment of the first full-time Executive Director on January 1, 1981.
- incorporation of the FRPA, recognized as a non-profit corporation as of May 17, 1982.
- membership reached a record high of 1,850 in 1988.
- a Manual of Procedures and Conference Manual were completed, which set standards and guidelines for service.
- in 1984, FRPA awarded its 1,000th certification in the voluntary certification plan.
- the board designated funds for the purchase of a micro-computer for the FRPA Executive Office.
- the first legislative forum was held in 1985.
- the 1st Annual Golf Tournament was held and over $2,200 was raised.
- FRPA won the NRPA Membership Award for improved membership in NRPA in 1986 and Southern Region gave us $140 toward our scholarship fund.
- in 1987, FRPA showed an increase of 15% in membership.
- first ever grant from the Department of Education was received by FRPA for a Drug Prevention

Program, to provide technical assistance to 10 departments on how recreation and parks can provide alternatives to drug and alcohol abuse activities.

- _ the first _Florida Perfect for Parks and Recreation_ calendar was developed and made available.
- _ in 1992, FRPA purchased its Executive Office headquarters building in Tallahassee.
- _ FRPA was instrumental in passing the Florida Volunteer Immunity Legislation in the 1992 legislative session.
- _ FRPA is instrumental in securing twice the usual funding for the FRDAP program.
- _ FRPA formulates in first ever Long Range Strategic Plan to be updated each year by the FRPA Board of Directors, in 1992.
- _ FRPA formulates and implements its first ever Financial Guidelines Document to guide and implement procedures for the spending of Association financial resources at the state, district and interest section levels.

OBJECTIVES

To unite in one organization all recreation leaders in the State of Florida.

To develop and stimulate an intelligent interest in the possibilities of, the need for, and the values of adequate recreation programs in the State of Florida.

To foster and maintain high standards in recreation.

To assist the universities and colleges of Florida in the recruitment, training, and employment of qualified recreation personnel.

To function in such other ways as will further the interest of the recreation movement.

To cooperate with other agencies or organizations, both private and public, with similar or related objectives.
